

Passion for performance

Detailed precision with performance

Passion for performance is what drives Beier. With our brand we are irrefutably committed to top performance in all areas. Your satisfaction is the benchmark of our shared success. We provide you with the necessary assurance and quality during the development and manufacturing of your machines and tools. Our precision flows through all processes and is the basis for a shared perspective and mutual trust. For success that is sustainable. We continue to develop together with you as a partner and look forward to your challenges. We turn your ideas into reality with motivation, the highest possible precision and comprehensive know-how. That is what we stand for – that is what you can depend on.

Comprehensive know-how

Creating perspectives from knowledge

With decades of experience in the manufacturing of machinery and tools, we are your added-value partner. This is because we are continuously developing, and expanding our horizons for your benefit. Passion for performance is what drives us and our know-how is the fuel for creating sustainable solutions. We show you new paths and options to enable you to move forward. Beier's sensible combination of experience and targeted curiosity about new things results in progress that has perspectives and leads to success.

Mechanical engineering

The best solution with certainty

You always receive precision and the best solution for your machinery and systems from Beier. Thanks to our comprehensive expertise in the industry and capacity for efficient innovation we can give you exactly the certainty you need for your project and product. We look forward to new developments and new ideas that sometimes demand a bit of playful experimentation. We are also practised and experienced in the processing of special materials. We know precisely how to implement your drawings and sample parts as your personal problem solver and integrator. With our mechanical engineering solutions that go far beyond the standard we focus on long-term partnerships that strengthen both you as well as us, thereby facilitating sustainable trust. That – and nothing less – is our daily aspiration.

Tool manufacturing

Expertise in development and manufacturing

It is rare to be able to make compromises in tool manufacturing. From the very beginning we develop and manufacture tools with the highest precision and quality for optimal solutions from Beier. With our comprehensive expertise in technology and development we support you through challenging short production runs and near-series prototypes. We have high-performance tools for the construction and development of manufacturing methods, gripper systems and for the processing of high-durability materials. Everything is carried out with one goal: certainty and quality during development and manufacturing. You get everything from a single source with Beier. For real "one-stop shopping" and a development partnership that sets new benchmarks.

Hand in hand to tailored solutions for your certainty

Trusting in a long-term partnership

We design and produce ensured tailored solutions and develop ourselves together with you in a long-term partnership. This results in trust as a fundamental basis for our co-operation. On this foundation of trust, Beier is your contact partner to whom you can entrust even strictly confidential tasks and always be sure of 100% discretion at all times during the project. Trust results in certainty and that is how we work together with you not only to form products but also shared perspectives for the future. With Beier you have a high-performance partner at your side for the development and manufacture of mechanical engineering components and tools. This results in flawless tailored solutions for you – with certainty.
